Spiritual Journey ~ A Web Site to Guide You on Your Path

The Spiritual Journey Web site was created by Mark Rawson to help people at all levels of spirituality find resources, events, services, and products. Rawson started the Web site as part of his own spiritual journey after realizing that there was not enough information readily available about the industry and the people that provide spiritual services.

Rawson initially experienced a psychic reading that left him with many questions. He was a technology-minded, left-brain thinker, and not completely convinced that psychic readings weren't just a scam. He continued with additional readings and found that other psychics confirmed the first reading—he was to follow the path of becoming a psychic and medium.

After comparing notes from all of his readings and researching everything he could find about the spiritual industry, he started reading books. Rawson said, "I read book after book, about 40 in total, from all of the major stars and leads in each area of the spiritual industry. I was surprised to find that there are so many services, resources, and products available—but [they are] hard to locate. During the process, I wished that there was one place that I could go where I could find everything I needed."

He joined workshops, received training, and got certified in different areas, and through this process the idea of Spiritual Journey was born. "I found that as I went through the different stages of my journey, there were positives and negatives of the industry," said Rawson, explaining, "but I did not have anyone to help me on my path or a site where I could go for information."

A wish for a comprehensive location to do research, buy products, find events, and connect with other spiritual people was Rawson's impetus behind Spiritual Journey, and it continues to grow. The main site has resources, services, and a forum where people can meet and talk about spiritual topics. There are event listings from around the world on the site, along with an online store that features books and organic products. The online store also lists the services that Rawson offers, which include Reiki, psychic readings, and mediumship readings. The newest addition to the site is technology services for spiritual people. Rawson said, "I hope to help spiritual people as they start or upgrade their businesses through the setup of websites, newsletters, email, blogs, and other business-related services."

One important thing about the web site, Rawson notes, is the quality of information he provides. "I wanted to make sure that it was only made up of people that I knew would provide good service... To this day, we do not take any paid advertising and I am very careful to only add the best that I can find to the site."

Mark Rawson is a psychic and medium, a Usui Reiki II energy healer, and teaches workshops such as Emotional Release Therapy and Intro to Psychic Development. He was a member of The Psychic and Mediumship Development Group of New Jersey. Mark is the Founder of the Spiritual Journey web site, forum, and online store. www.spiritualjourneynj.org.
